

Mommy's Little Girl – by Monica Kates

*From the moment I was born,
I was mommy's little girl.
When I looked into her eyes
I knew I was her world.*

*I was born unto her a miracle,
lucky to be alive,
and now until my dying day
I will be right by her side.*

*Even when I die,
I will be with her in her heart.
All because she stood by me,
from the very start.*

*Even when I was bad,
and ran off at the mouth,
I knew that mommy loved me,
without the slightest doubt.*

*Whenever I was sad,
she knew just how to make me smile.
She'd talk & laugh & sing & joke...
or just hold me for a while.*

*No one could believe how much we love each other.
They've never seen such closeness between a child and her mother.*

*I never had to lie,
or hide the way I feel.
She knew I wasn't perfect, and allowed me to be real.*

*On the day that she got sick
and had problems with her heart,
I prayed to god and asked him please
"god give her a new start"*

*All my prayers were answered and she was good as new.
Now every night I pray
That her heartache will be through.*

*Now everyday is special.
I know I'm lucky she's still here.
I will never take her for granted.
I will always hold her near.*

*So to anyone who reads this,
Oh how jealous you should be,
My mother is the best
and she saves all her love for me.*

*My mother is the best
in this whole wide world.
That's why I'm proud to be Mommy's little girl!*
